

The University of South Dakota

SCHOOL OF HEALTH SCIENCES

HEALTH SCIENCES MAJOR

June 6, 2011

Dear Health Care Professional,

The University of South Dakota Health Sciences Department within the School of Health Sciences invites applications for four (4) nine month faculty positions beginning August 2011. USD implemented a BS in Health Sciences undergraduate degree program fall 2009, with three academic pathways: Pre-professional Studies, Health Care Studies and Health Care Advancement Studies. The faculty positions provide an exceptional opportunity to be involved in the new Health Science Major. The new faculty members will join an energetic team as part of an exciting and dynamic major that demonstrates great growth potential.

Applicants for this position must have a Master's Degree and a minimum of three years experience in the healthcare field. An earned doctorate, teaching experience, and experience as a healthcare professional is preferred.

Responsibilities for these positions include teaching courses in the areas of health communication and human relations, health care delivery systems, professionalism, legal and ethical perspectives related to health care, technology in healthcare delivery, health literacy, cultural aspects of care, and leadership. Teaching responsibilities will depend on interest and experience. In addition, the position requires engagement in research and scholarship, and service to the Department, School of Health Sciences, the University, the Community and the Profession.

Visit us on the web for additional information about USD (<http://www.usd.edu>), the School of Health Sciences (<http://www.usd.edu/health-sciences/>), and/or the Health Sciences Department (<https://www.usd.edu/health-sciences/health-sciences-major/>) or contact June Larson, Associate Dean, School of Health Sciences at 605.677.5000 or June.Larson@usd.edu. The University of South Dakota is located in Vermillion, South Dakota near the Missouri River in southeastern South Dakota.
